Can you believe it's September already, and school has started? Even though it's still hot outside, September still means cool, crisp weather, football, learning and new school clothes. Speaking of learning new things, this month I thought I'd share some interesting ideas I've come across recently.

The first is a UFM class that Sue Hageman is conducting October 11 and 18, offering the chance to make your own barn quilt. To sign up, visit ufm.com, or look the for paper catalog in your mail. Even though I won a barn quilt from Sue, I still would like to make my own. Unfortunately, I'll be out of town during that time, but I still hope to take one of her classes some day.

Another recent find is spoonflower.com, a website that allows you to get patterns printed on fabric (15 different kinds, from cotton to canvas to silk), gift wrap or wallpaper. There are numerous patterns at the site, or you can design your own. To learn more, go to spoonflower.com/about. You can even earn a commission if others order materials from your original design. How cool is that?

President's Block:

Jennie has chosen a 2-block, 2-color theme for her president's quilt. The two blocks are Ohio Star and Snowball; the colors are blue and yellow (plus white). The block should be 9" finished, 9½" unfinished. Instructions for each block are on the guild website www.kpqg.com. There will also be paper handouts at guild meetings for the non-technical among us. More detailed instructions can be found at <http://www.generations-quilt-patterns.com/ohio-star-quilt-block.html> or, for the snowball, <http://www.quilterbydesign.com/lessons/snowball.html>.
